We're responsible for children

As adults we are all responsible for protecting our little children within our society. When adults forget this, that is when our elected officials step in because we have elected them, on every level of government, to protect its citizens from the evils of this world, as it is the responsibility of all adults to do this in protecting our children. But, as we know, many adults become full of evil that they do not know what is right or wrong so they do not become good parents, or worse, they become child predators or other types of criminals. Evil or sexual permissive literature does not belong in the hands of young children. If a child is looking into gay or other sexual material, then that child is already becoming corrupt, because a child of age 9 to at least 14 should not be considering these things in their lifestyle and the parents have not done their job. A child should be raised with love, spiritual nourishment, encouragement of living by the golden rule, and high social standards, to be a responsible citizen, to educated in righteousness, justice, goodwill and patriotism to their country's beliefs set up by our founding fathers, and God himself. When you as a parent had your child baptized, you gave permission to your fellow Christians and society to help protect and raise that child that would be good in the sight of God's eye. If any parent is not doing this you are only asking for trouble. When the subject of sex is talked about between parents and child, rather than in school (since school does not consider your values when doing so), then it needs to be done the way you as a parent would want them to learn. Why do you think our children are sexually active and becoming pregnant too early and fool around with different sex partners at these early ages? It is because they are not being educated properly. Parents need to be parents. When parents fail, then guess who has to step in, yes, some government agency.

Family values

I feel that our country, state, city of West Bend is being attacked by the gay agenda that wants us to believe that the homosexual lifestyle is normal. The library certainly has the right to have these books there, but I couldn't imagine my grandchild coming across one of these books. Why is it so difficult to just move them to the adult section and then have other books promoting our family values? We need to have both sides of the issue. As a parent and a grandmother I'm deeply concerned about what's happening to our America. Thank you.

Stick to the issue

Hi. This is my comment for the News: Quote, "Moving the books is a form of censorship." Then illustrations and descriptions of oral and anal sex between kids, the adventures of adult-child sex, violent rape or masturbation techniques are all a form of pornography. Therefore, illegal by Wisconsin state statutes if they are dispersed to kids. To everyone who insists on playing the convenient victimization card: This is not about homosexual book banning. Get off that crutch, face reality and stick to the issue. Gay and straight pornographic descriptions are no appropriate reading material for kids. Also, get off the over-used "PC" cliché that your perception of porn is different than mine. Who could honestly say that these illustrations are not porn and therefore appropriate for young teens? Thank you.
